Note

THIS EXHIBITION aims at pleasing lovers of painting and reminding them of one of the great epochs in European art. Haste, the chances of war, and the difficulties of transport made a representative collection impossible; but thanks to the courage and generosity of collectors most of the great painters of the period are represented by at least one fine work, and there is a really good show of Impressionist landscapes. The Trustees take this opportunity of expressing their gratitude to Lenders. They hope that the Exhibition will not only give pleasure, but will help to dispel the slight mist of provincialism which may settle on this country in its present isolation, when not even the great painting of the past is available to set a standard of achievement.

Dear Sir,

Thank you for your letter of December 20th.

We also have here a copy of the undated catalogue of an exhibition Nineteenth Century French Paintings held at this Gallery. I find from our records here that the exhibition was opened to the public on 11th December, 1942. I much regret that I have been unable to find any record of its closing date. I do hope that the information given above will be sufficient for your purposes.

Yours faithfully,

Pamela Byres
